Report The six of us had a fun but a little cold hike. Thanks to Paul Greenbaum's suggestion a couple of years ago, we did the hike as a loop rather than an in and out hike. This change has been so popular that I have been doing it ever since. On the hike along the ditch bank behind the houses on Rio Grande Blvd., we enjoyed sights of the 150 year old trees, the teepee, the llamas, peacocks, geese, cranes, horses and, the new addition, the flock of sheep. The second half of the hike was walking along the side of Rio Grande Blvd. and seeing those million dollar plus homes with their great decorations.

Feeling the we deserved a good lunch after our hike, we ate at El Bruno's Restaurant on 4th St. Thanks to Joel for his great pictures and to John Rivers for driving and sweeping.
